

Cannabis May Prevent Drug Resistance Mutations in HIV

Pre-exposure prophylaxis (PrEP) is a promising preventive approach to greatly reduce the risk of HIV infection

However, PrEP sometimes fail due to the appearance of antiretroviral drug resistance mutations (ARV-DRMs) in HIV

Does substance use increase the odds of having ARV-DRMs?

